On Saturday, June 27th, The Dustball Rally 500 ensues, in which a mass variety of Dustball vehicles will embark on a 500-mile adventure. Vehicles will be launched at one-minute intervals, from lowest horsepower to highest horsepower rated vehicles. 30 seconds prior to launch, each team will be issued a mission pack, which contains everything you need to complete the rally.

This particular Rally is a Gimmick Rally in which you will be given a set of clues to figure out your next direction, and answer test questions successfully. The gimmicks will be found along a designated 500 mile route.

Once Dustballers begin to complete the final miles of their trek, they will cross the finish line in which their completed test will be collected. Display parking is once again available, and Dustballers are encouraged to mingle at the finish line location (location is described in Rally Instructions).

You have Questions, we have answers:

-Are there different vehicle classes? No, all vehicles are in the same class, even if they are equipped with GPS systems or other rally equipment

-Why are the lowest horsepower vehicles being launched first? We know the valued experience it is to pass and be passed, and launching some of the slower cars first makes for a more interesting and visually appealing site in the towns you will be passing through
